Columbus Vegetable Oils Launches New Line of Dressing Cups to Foodservice Operators Amidst Growing Delivery Trend

Des Plaines, Ill. – May 29, 2019—Columbus Vegetable Oils, a leading food oil company serving the foodservice industry with high quality vegetable oils, shortenings and dressings, has launched the company’s first line of dressing cups for foodservice and c-store operators.

The dressing cups, which are available in three sizes—1.25 oz, 1.5 oz and 2 oz.—are filled with dressing from Columbus’ Butcher Boy line. With nearly 30 dressings, sauces and dips to choose from, the cups are a solution for operators looking to offer individual portions of condiments to customers.

“The delivery and food on-the-go trend is not only growing, it is also becoming a table stake within many of our customers’ operations,” said Ben Caffrey, operations manager for Columbus Vegetable Oils. “We are always looking to stay in tune with what our customers’ needs are, which is a large reason for the launch of the dressing cups. It’s important that we are able to produce a necessary product for our clients to succeed.”

Made for individual consumption, the dressing cups were created to accompany popular grab-n-go items such as pizza, chicken wings, salads and wraps. From ranch to honey mustard to tartar sauce and pancake syrup, the dressing cups are gluten-free and don’t require refrigeration. Private labeling is also available.
